

ABSTRACT

Motion picture data used in both of analog and digital broadcasts is provided with high picture display quality and a common user interface. Such display of motion picture data can be achieved by providing a plurality of picture format converting means, a plurality of OSD means and means for taking motion picture data used in an analog broadcast in a common memory.